Scæna Tertia.

Enter Sir Toby, and Maria.

Sir To. What a plague meanes my Neece to take the death of her brother thus? I am fure care's an enemie to life

Mar. By my troth fir Teby, you must come in earlyer a nights : your Colin, my Lady, takes great exceptions to your ill hourss. To. Why let her except, before excepted.

Ma. I, but you must confine your selfe within the modeft limits of order.

To. Confine? Ile confine my selfe no finer then I am : these cloatnes are good enough to drinke in, and so bee these boors too : and they be not, let them hang themlelues in their owne straps.

Ms. That quaffing and drinking will vndoe you : I Leard my Lady talks of it yefterday : and of a foolifh knight that you brought in one night here, to be hir woer

To, Who, Sir Andrew Agne-cheeke?

Mas I he.

To. He's as tall a man as any's in Iliyria.

Ma. What's that to th'purpole ?

70. Why he ha's three thousand ducates a yeare.

Ma. I, but hee'l have but a yeare in all these ducates : He's a very foole, and a prodigall.

To.F:e, that you'l fay fo : he playes o'th Viol-de-gs boys, and fpeaks three or four funguages word for word without booke, & hath all the good gifts of nature.

Ma. He hath indeed, almost naturall : for besides that he's a foole, he's a great quarreller : and but that hee hath the gift of a Coward, to allay the guft he hath in quarrelling, 'tis thought among the prudent, he would quickely have the gift of a grave.

Tob. By this hand they are scoundrels and subfirs-Aois that fay to ofhim. Who are they?

Me. They that adde moreour, hee's drunke nightly in your company.

To. With drinking healths to my Neece : Ile drinke to her as long as there is a paffage in my throat, & drinke in Illyria : he's a Coward and a Coyfirill that will 100 drinke to my Neece. till his braines turne o'th toe, like a parifh top. What wench? Cafiliane valge: for here coms Sit Andrew Agneface.

Enter Sit Andrew.

And. Sir Toby Belch. How now fir Toby Belch? To. Sweet fir Andrew. And. Bleffe you faire Shrew. Mar. And you too fir. Tob. Accoll Sir Andrew, accolt.

- And. What's that?
- To. My Neeces Chamber-maid.

Ma.Good Miffris accost, I desire better acquaintance Ma. My name is Mary fir.

And. Good miftris Mary, accoft.

To, You miltake knight : Accoft, is front her, boord her, woe her, affayle her.

And. By my troth I would not vndertake her in this company. Is that the meaning of Accoft?

Ma. Far you well Gentlemen.

To. And thou let part fo Sir Andrew, would thou mightit neuer draw fword agen.

And. And you part fo mildris, I would I might never draw iword agen : Faire Lady, doe you thinke you have fooles in hand?

Ma. Sir, I hauenet you by'th hand.

Ma. It's dry fir.

And. Why I thinke fo : I am not fuch an affe, but 1 can keepe my hand dry. But what's your left ?

Ma. A dry will Sir

And. Are you full of them?

Ma.I Sir, I have them at my fingers endst marry now I let go your hand, 1 am barren. Exit Maria

To. Oknight, thou lack'ft a cop of Canarie: when did I fee thee fo put downe?

An. Neuer in your life I thinke, vnleffe you fee Canarie put me downe : mee thinkes fometimes I haueno more wit then a Christian, or an ordinary man ha's : but I am a great eater of beefe, and I beleeue that does harme to my wit.

To. No question.

An. And I thought that, I'de forfweare it. Ile tide home to morrow fir Teby.

To. Pur-quoy my deers knight?

An. What is purquey? Do, or not do? I would I had bestowed that time in the tongues, that I have in feneing dancing, and beare-bayting : O had I but followed the Arts.

Enter Marsa, and Clowne.

Ma. Nay, either tell me where thou hall bin, or I will not open my lippes fo wide as a brifsle may enter, in way of thy excute : my Lady will hang thee for thy abfence.

Cla. Let her hang me : hee that is well hang'de in vins world, needs to feare no colours.

Ma. Make that good.

Clo. He shall see none to feare.

Ma. A goodlenton answer: I can tell thee where ý faying was borne, of I feare no colours.

Clo. Where good miltris Mary?

Ma. In the warrs, & that may you be bolde to fay in your foolerie.

Cb. Well, God giue them wifedome that hauest: & those that are fooles, let them vse their talents.

Ma. Yet you will be hang'd for being folong absent, or to be turn'd away: is not that as good as a hinging to you?

Clo. Many a good hanging, prevents a bad marriage: and for turning away, les turniner beare it out.

Ma. You are resolute then?

Clo Not fo neyther, but I am refolu'd on two points na. I'nat if one breake, the other will hold: or if both breake, your gasking tall.

Cle. Apt in good faith, very apt: well go thy way, if fir Toby would leave drinking, thou wert as witty a piece of Enes flefh, as any in Illyria.

Ma. Peace you rogue, no mote o'that: here comes my Lady : make your excufe wifely, you were beft.

Euter Lady Olinia, with Maluolio.

Ol. Take the foole away.

Clo. Do you not heare feilowes, take a way the Ladie. Ol. Go too, y'are a dry foole : Ile no more of yousbefides you grow dif-honelt.

Clo. Two faults Madona, that drinke & good counfell wil amend zfor giue the dry foole drink, then is the foole not dry: bid the difhomest man mend himfelf, if he mend, he is no longer difhonest; if hee cannot, let the Botcher mend him : any thing that's mended, is but patch'd: vertu that transgresses, is but patche with some, and in that amends, is but patcht with sertue. ł,

Cle. Dexterioufly, good Madona.

Ol. Make your proofe.

Clo. 1 mult catechize you for it Madona, Good my Moule of vertue answer mee

Ol. Well fir, for want of other idleneffe, Ile bide your proofe.

Clo. Good Madona, why mournft thou?

Ol. Good foole, for my brothers death.

Clo. I thinke his foule is in hell, Madona.

Ol. I know his fould is in heaven, foole

Cle. The more foole (Madona) to mourne for your Brothers soule, being in heauen. Take away the Foole, Gentlemen.

Ol. What thinke you of this toole Maluolio, doth he not mend?

Mal. Yes, and fhall do, till the pangs of death fhake him : Infirmity that decaies the wife, doth cuer make the better foole.

Clow. God send you fir, 2 speedie Infirmity, for the better increasing your folly : Sir Toby will be f worn that I an no Fox, but he wil not paffe his word for two pence that you are no Foole.

(11 isow tay voit to that Maluolio?

M.d. I maruell your Ladyfhip takes delight in fuch s bairen rascall · I faw him put down the other day, with an ordu ny foole, that has no more braine then a ftone. Looke you now, he's out of his gard already : voles you laugh and min ster occasion to him, he is gug'd. I prorest I take there Wifemen, that crow fo at there iet kinde of fooles, no better then the fooles Zanies.

Ol. O you are ficke of selfe love Malnelso, and taite with a diffemper'd appetite. To be generous, gui leffe, and of free dispolition, is to take those things for Budbolts, that you deeme Cannon bulicts : There is no flander in an allow'd foole, though he do nothing but rayle; nor no rayling, in a knowne difereet man, though hee do nothing but reprove

Cle. Now Mercury indue thee with leafing, for theu fpeak'ft well of fooles.

Enter Maria.

Mar. Madam, there is at the gate, a young Gentleman, much defires to ipeake with you.

Ol. From the Count Orfine, 18 it?

Ma I know not (Madam) 'tis a faire young man, and wel attended.

Ol. Who of my people hold him in delay :

Ala. Sir Toby Madam, your kinfman.

01. Fetch him off I pray you, he speakes nothing but madman : Fie on him. Go you Malueleo; If it be at fuit from the Count, I am ficke, or not at home. What you will, to difmisse it. Exit Malno Now you fee fir, how your fooling growes old, & people diffike it.

Clo Thouh Afpoke for vs (Madona) as if thy eldeft fonne should be a foole : who se scull, Ioue cramme wish braines, for heere he comes. Enter Sir Toby. One of thy kin has a most weake Pia-mater,

Ol. By mine honor halfe drunke. What is he at th gate Cofin ?

To. A Gentleman.

Ol. A Geneleman ? What Geneleman?

To. Tis a Gentleman beere. A plague o'these pickle herring: How now Sot.

Clo. Good Sir Toby.

Ol. Colin, Colin, how have you come to earely by this Lethargie?

To. Letcherie, I defie Letchery : there's one at the gate

Ol. Imarry, what is he?

To. Let him be the diuell and he will, I care not: give me faith fay I. Well, it's all one. Exit

01. What's a drunken man like, foole?

Cle. Like a drown'd man, a foole, and a madde man : One draught aboue heate, makes him a foole, the fecond maddes him, and a third drownes him.

01. Go thou and feeke the Crowner, and let him fitte o'my Coz: for he's in the third degree of drinke: hee's drown'd : go looke after him.

Clo. He is but mad yet Madona, and the foole shall looke to the madman.

Enter Malnolio,

* Mal. Madam, yond young fellow sweares hee will speake with you. I told him you were ficke, he takes on hun to underfland fo much, and therefore comes to fpeak with you. I told him you were affeepe, he feems to have a fore knowledge of that too, and therefore comes to tpeake with you. What is to be faid to him Ladie, hee's fortified against any deniall.

Ol. Tell him, he shall not speake with me.

Mal. Ha's beene told fo : and hee fayes hee'l fland at your doore like a Sheriffes post, and be the supporter to a bench, but liee'l fpeake with you.

4 % What kinde o'man is he?

Mal. Why of mankinde.

Of. What a anner of man?

Mal. Of verieill manner . hee'l fpeake with you, will you, or no

Of what perfonage, and yeeres is he?

Mal. Not yet old enough for a man, nor yong enough for a boy : as a fquash is before tis a pelcod, or a Codling when tis almost an Apple: Tis with him in flanding wa-ter, betweene boy and man. He is verie well-fauour'd, and he speakes verie shrewishly : One would thinke his mothers milke weie fearle out of him.

01 Let him approach : Call in my Gentlewoman. Mal. Gentlewoman, my Lady calles. Exit

Enter Maria.

OL. Gale me my valle : come throw it ore my face, Wee'l once more heare Orfinos Embassie.

Enter Usolenta.

Vio. The honorable Ladie of the house, which is she? Ol. Speake to me, I shall answer for her : your will.

Uso, Most radiant, exquisite, and vnmatchable beautie. I pray you tell me if this bee the Lady of the heule, for Incuer fawher. I would bee losth to caft away my speech : for befides that it is excellently well pend, I have taken great paines to con it. Good Beauties, let mee fuflaine no fcorne ; 1 am very comptible, euen to the leaft fimiter vlage.

Ol. Whence came you fir?

Vie. I can fay little more then I have Rudied, & that queftion's out of my part, Good gentle one, giue mee reodeft afforance, it you bethe Ladie of the houle, that may proceede in my speech.

Ol. Are you a Comedian ?

Vie. No my profound heart : and yet (by the verie phangs of malice, I fweare) I am not that I play. Are you the Ladie of the house ?

01. If I do not vsurpe my felfe, I am.

Uso. Most certaine, if you are she, you do vsurp your selfe : for what is yours to bestowe, is, not yours to referue. But this is from my Commission : I will on with my speech in your praise, and then shew you the hears of my meffage.

Ol. Come to what is important in't : I forgiue you the praise.

Vio. Alas, I tooke great paines to fludie it, and 'tis Poeticall.

Ol. It is the more like to be feigned, I pray you keep it in. I heard you were lawcy at my gates, & allowd your approach rather to wonder at you, then to heare you. If you be not mud, be gone : if you haue reason, be breefe : tis not that time of M some with me, to make one in so skipping a dialogue.

Cita. Will you hoyft fayle fir, here lies your way.

Vio. No good swabber, I am to hull here a little longer. Some mollification for your Giant, sweete Ladie; tell me your minde, I am a meffenger.

Of. Sure you have fome hiddeous matter to dehuer, when the curtefie of it is fo fearefull. Speake your office.

Vie. It alone concernes your eare : I bring no ouerture of warre, no taxation of homage; I hold the Olyfie in my hand : my words are as full of peace, as matter.

Ol. Yct you began rudely. What are you?

What would you t

Fis. The rudeneffe that hath appear'd in mee, haue I learn'd from my entertainment. What I am, and what I would, are as fecret as maiden-head : to your eares, Diuinity; to any others, prophanation.

Ol. Giuevs the place alone,

We will heare this diminitie. Now fir, what is your text? Vie. Molt fweet Ladie.

01. A comfortable doctrine, and much may bee faide ofit. Where hes your Text?

Vie. In Orfinses bolome.

Ol. In his bosome? In what chapter of his bosome?

Vio. To answer by the method, in the first of his hart.

Ol. O, I haue read it: it is herefie. Haue you no more to fay >

Vie. Good Madam, let me see your face.

Ol. Haue you any Commission from your Lord, to negotiate with my face : you are now out of your Text : but we will draw the Curtain, and thew you the picture. Looke you fir, fuch a one I was this prefent : Ift not well done?

Vio. Excellently done, if God did all. Ol. 'Tis in graine fit, 'twill endure winde and weather.

Vio. Tis beauty truly blent, whole red and white,

Natures owne fweet, and cunning hand laid on :

Lady, you are the cruell's shee aliue,

If you will leade these graces to the graue,

And leaue the world no copie.

Of O fir, I will not be io hard-hearted : I will give out divers scedules of my beautie. It shalbe Inventoried and every particle and vtenfile labell'd to my will: As, Item two lippes indifferent redde, Item two grey eyes, with lids to them: Item, one necke, one chin, & fo forth. Were you fent hither to praife me?

Fie. I fee you what you are, you are too proud : But if you were the diuell, you are faire : My Lord, and mafter loues you : O fuch loue Could be butrecompene'd, though you were crown'd The non-pareil of beautie.

Ol. How does he love me?

Vio, With adorations, fertill teares,

With groanes that thunder loue, with fighes of fire. Ol. Your Lord does know my mind, I cannot love him Yet I suppose him vertuous, know him noble, Of great eftate, of fresh and stainlesse youth; In voyces well divulg'd, free, learn'd, and valiant, And in dimension, and the thape of nature, A gracious perlon ; But yet I cannot loue him :

He might have tooke his answer long ago, Vie. If I did loue you in my mafters flame, With fuch a foffiing, fuch a deadly life : In your deniall, I would finde no fence, I would not vnderftand it.

O!. Why, what would you?

Vio. Make me a willow Cabine at your gate, And call vpon my foule within the houfe, Write loyall Cantons of contemned loue, And fing them lowd even in the dead of night : Hallow your name to the reverberate hilles, And make the babling Golsip of the sire, Cry out Olinia ; O you fhould not reft Betweene the elements of ayre, and earth, But you fhould pittie me.

Ol. You might do much :

What is your Parentage?

Vie. Aboue my fortunes, yet my flate is well: I am a Gentleman.

Ol. Get you to your Lord:

I cannot loue him : let him fend no more, Vuleffe(perchance) you come to me againe, To tell me how he takes it: Fare you well:

I thanke you for your paines: spend this for mee. Vw. I am no feede poalt, Lady; keepe your purfe, My Master, not my felfe, lackes recompence. Loue make his heart of flint, that you fhal loue, And let your feruour like my masters be, Plac'd in contempt : Farwell fayre crueltie.

Ol. What is your Parentage? Aboue my fortunes, yet my fiste is well ; I am a Gentleman. Ile be tworne thou art, Thy tongue, thy face, thy limbes, actions, and spirit. Do giue thee fine-fold blazon : not too faft : foft, foft, Vnleffe the Malter were the man. How now? Even fo quickly may one catch the plague ? Merhinkes I feele this youths perfections With an mulible, and iubtle stealth To creepe in at mine eyes. Well, let it be. What hos, Maluelio.

Enter Maluolio.

Mal. Heere Madam, at your service. Ol. Run after that same peeuish Messenger The Countes man: he left this Ring behinde him Would I, or not : tell him, Ile none of it. Defire him not to flatter with his Lord, Nor hold him vp with hopes, I sm not for him : If that the youth will come this way to morrow, Ile give him ressons for't : hie thee Mainelie. Exi.

Mal. Madam, I will. Ol. I do I know not what, and feare to finde Mine eye too great a flatterer for my minde s

Enter Antonio & Sebastian.

Ant. Will you ftay no longer : nor will you not that I go with you.

Seb. By your patience, noe my faires thine darkely ouer me; the malignancie of my fate, might perhaps diftemper yours; therefore I shall craue of your your leave, that I may beare my cuils alone. It were a bad recompence for your love, to lay any of them on you.

An. Let me yet know of you, whither you are bound.

Seb. No footh fir: my determinate voyage ismeere extrausgancie. Bat I perceiue in you fo excellent a touch of modefhe, that you will not extort from me, what I am willing to keepe in: therefore it charges me in manners, the rather to expresse y selfe: you must know of mee then Antonio, my name is Sebastian (which I call'd Kodorigo) my father was that Sebastian of Messaime, whom I know you have heard of. He left behinde him, my felfe, and a fifter, both borne in an houre : if the Heanens had beene pleas'd, would we had so ended. But you fir, alter'd that, for some houre before you tooke me from the breach of the sea, was my fifter drown'd.

Ant. Alas the day.

Seb. A Lady fir, though it was faid fhee much refembled me, was yet of many accounted beautiful: but thogh I could not with fuch effimable wonder ouer-farre beleeue that, yet thus farre I will boldly publish her, fhee bore a minde that envy could not but call faire : Shee is drown'd already fir with falt water, though I feeme to drowne her remembrance againe with more.

Ant. Pardon me fir, your bad entertainment.

Seb. O good Antonio, forgiue me your trouble.

Ant. If you will not murther me for my love, let mee be your fertuint.

Seb. It you will not viido what you haue done, that is kill him, whom you haue recouer'd, defire it not. Fare ye well at once, my bofome is full of kindneffe, and I am yet io neere the manners of my mother, that vpon the leaft occafion more, mine eyes will tell tales of me: I am bound to the Count Orfino's Court, farewell. Exit

Ant. The gentleneffe of all the gods go with thee : I have many enemies in Orfigo's Court, Elfe would I very flortly fee there there : But come what may, I do adore thee fo, That danger fhall feeme fport, and I will go. Exit.

Vio. I warrant thou art a merry fellow, and car'ft for nothing

Clo. Not fo fir, I do care for something: but in my conscience sir, I do not care for you : if that be to care for nothing fir, I would it would make you inuifible.

Vio. Art not thou the Lady Olimia's foole?

Clo. No indeed fir, the Lady Olinia has no folly, fhee will keepe no foole fir, till the be married, and fooles are aslike husbands, as Pilchers are to Herrings, the Hufbands the bigger, I am indeede not her foole, but hir corrupter of words.

Vio. I faw thee late at the Count Orfino's.

Clo. Foolery fir, does walke about the Orbe like the Sun, it fhines every where. I would be forry fir, but the Foole flould be as of: with your Mafter, as with my Miftris : I thinke I faw your wiledome there.

Vio. Nay, and thou palle ypon me, Ile no more with thee. Hold there's expenses for thee.

(7) Now Ione in his next commodity of hayre, fend tore Leard.

Vio. By my troth Ile tell thee, I am almost ficke for one, though I would not haue it grow on my chinne. Is thy Lady within?

Clo Would not a paire of these haue bred fir?

Vio. Yes being kept together, and put to vie.

Clo.I would play Lord Pandarus of Phygia fir, to bring a Creffida to this Troylus.

Vio. I vndeiftand vou fir, tis well begg'd.

Clo. The matter I hope is not great fir; begging, but a begger : Creffida was a begger. My Lady is within fir. I will confter to them whence you come, who you are, and what you would are out of my welkin, I might fay Element, but the word is oucr-worne.

Vio. This fellow is wife enough to play the foole, And to do that well, craues a kinde of wit : He must observe their mood on whom he iests, The quality of perfons, and the time : And like the Haggard, checke at every Feather That comes before his eye. This is a practice, As full of labour as a Wife-mans Art : For folly that he wifely fhewes, is fit ; But wifemens folly falne, quite taint their wit. Inter Sor Toby and Andrew.

To. Saue you Gentleman.

Vio. And you fir.

And. Dien von gnard Munsieur.

Vio. Et vonz ousse vostre serniture.

An. I hope fir, you are, and I am yours.

To. Will you incounter the houfe, my Neece is defirous you fhould enter, if your trade be to her.

Vie. I am bound to your Neece fir, I meane she is the lift of my voyage.

To. Tafte your legges fir, put them to motion.

V10. My legges do better vuderstand me fir, then I vnderstand what you meane by bidding me taste my legs.

To. I meane to go fir, to enter.

Fio. I will answer you with gate and entrance, but we are preuented.

Enter Olinia, and Gentlewaman.

Most excellent accomplish'd Lady, the heavens raine Q-dours on you. And. That youth's strate Courtier, raine odours, viel. Fio. My matter hath no voice Lady, but to your owne

And. Odours, pregnant, and vouchfafed : Ile get 'en all three already. Ol. Let the Garden doore be shut, and leave mee to Ol. What is your name?

Vio. Cefario is your seruants name, faire Princesse. Ol. My feruant fir?' I was neuer merry world, Since lowly feigning was call'd complement:

y'are feruant to the Count Or fino youth.

Fio. And he is yours, and his must needs be yours : your feruants seruant, is your seruant Madam

Ol. For him, I thinke not on him : for his thoughts, Would they were blankes, rather then fill'd with me.

V10. Madam, I come to whet your gentle thoughts On his behalfe.

Ol. O by your leave I pray you. I bad you neuer fpeake againe of him; Bat would you vndertake another fuite

I had rather heare you, to folicit that, Then Mulicke from the lpheares.

Vio. Deere Lady.

Ol. Giue me leaue, beseech you!: I did send, After the last enchantment you did heare, ARing in chace of you. So did labufe My felfe, my feruant, and I feare me you : Vnder your hard construction must I fit, To force that on you in a fhamefull cunning Which you knew none of yours. What might you think? Hue you not fet mine Honor at the flake, And baited it with all th'vnmuzled thoughts That tyrannous heart can think? To one of your receiping Enough is shewne, a Cipresse, not a bolome, Hides my heart : fo let me heare you speake.

Vio. I pittie you.

Ol. That's a degree to loue.

V10. No nor a grize : for tis a vulgar proofe That verie of we pitty enemies.

Ol. Why then me thinkes 'tis time to faile sgent -O world, how aprthepoore are to be proud? If one should be a prey, how much the better To fail before the Lion, then the Wolfe?

Clocke Strikes.

The clocke vpbraides me with the walls of time: Be not affraid good youth, I will not have you, day And yet when wit and youth is come to hatueff, your wife is like to reape a proper mau : There lies your way, due Weft,

Vie. Then Weftwardhoe :

Grace and good dispension attend your Ladyship : you'l nothing Madain to my Lord, by me :

Ol. Stay : I prethee tell me what thou think ft of me ? Vio. That you do thinke you are not what you are.

Ol. If I thinke fo, I thinke the fame of you.

Use. Then thinke you right : I am not what I am.

OL I would you were, as I would have you be,

Vie. Would it be better Madam, then I am? wifh it night, for now I am your foole.

And. No faith, Ile not ftay a iot longer :

To. Thy reason deere venom, give thy reason.

Fab. You muft needes yeelde your reason, Sir An-Brew:

And. Marry I faw your Neece do more fauours to the Counts Seruing-man, then cuer she bestow'd vpon mee : I law't i'th Orchard.

To. Did fhe fee the while, old boy, tell me that.

And. As plaine as I fee you now.

Fab. This was a great argument of loue in her toward you

And. S'light ; will you make an Alie o'me.

Fab. I will proue it legitimate fir, vpon the Oathes of iudgement, and reason.

70. And they have beene grand Iurie men, fince before Noab was a Saylor.

Fab. Shee did thew favour to the youth in your fight, onely to exafperate you, to awake your dormoufe valour, to put fire in your Heart, and brimstone in your Liner : you should then have accossed her, and with some excellent iefts, fire-new from the mint, you fhould have bangd the youth into dambeneffe : this was look'd for at your hand, and this was baulkt : the double gilt of this opporcunitie you let time wash off, and you are now fayld into the North of my Ladies opinion, where you will heng like an yfickle on a Dutchmans beard, vnleffe you do redeeme it, by some landable attempt, either of valour or policie.

And't be any way, it must be with Valour, for policie I hate : I had as liefe be a Brownift, as a Politician

To. Why then build me thy fortunes vpon the basis of valour. Challenge me the Counts youth to fight withhim hurt him in eleven places, my Neece shall take note of it, and affure thy felfe, there is no loue-Broker in the world, can more preuaile in mans commendation with woman, then report of valour.

Fab. There is no way but this fir Andrew.

An. Will either of you beare me a challenge to him? To. Go, write it in a martial hand, be curft and briefe: it is no matter how wittie, fo it bee eloquent, and full of inuention: taunt him with the license of Inke : if thou thou'ft him fome thrice, it fhall not be amiffe, and as many Lyes, as will lye in thy sheete of paper, although the Inecte were bigge enough for the bedde of Ware in England, set 'em downe; go about it. Let there bee goulle e-nough in thy inke, though thou write with a Guore-pen, no matter : about it.

And. Where fhall I finde you?

To. Wee'l call thee at the Cubiculo : Go.

Exit Ser Andrew.

Hee's in yellow flockings.

To. And croffe garter'd?

Mar. Most villanously: like a Pedant that keepes a Schoole i'th Church : I have dogg'd him hl.e his murtherer. He does obey every point of the Letter that I dropt, to betray him : He does fmile his face into more lynes, then is in the new Mappe, with the augmentation of the Indies : you have not feene fuch a thing as tist I can hardly forbeare hurling things at him, I know my Ladie' will ftrike him : if shee doe, hee's smile, and take't for a great fauour.

To. I will doe fo. Signiour Fabian, flay you by this Gentleman, till my returne. Exit Toby.

Vso. Pray you fir, do you know of this matter? Fab. I know the knight is incenft against you, even to a mortall arbitrement, but nothing of the circumflance more,

Fio. I befeech you what manner of man is he?

Fab. Nothing of that wonderfull promife to read him by his forme, as you are like to finde hum in the proofe of his valour. He is indeede fir, the moft skilfull, bloudy, & fatall oppofite that you could possibly have found in anie part of Illyria: will you walke towards him, I will make your peace with him, if I can.

Vio. I shall bee much bound to you for't: I am one, that had rather go with fir Priest, then fir knight: I care not who knowes formuch of my mettle. Exempt.

You would have buy contracted to a Maid, Enter Malno! v Nor are you therein (by my life) deceived, You are betroth'd both to a mild and man. Dn. Is this the Madinan? Of. Imy Lord, this fame How now Maluelu? D4. Bengranoz'd, right noble is his blood : Mal Madam, you have don't me wrong, If this be fo, as yet the giaffe feemes true, Notorie wrong, I fliall have there in the most nappy wracke, Ol. Haue I Maluoluo No. Boy, thou hasi laide to me a thousand times, Mal. Lady vou haue, pray vou peruse shat Letter. Thou neuer frould'A loue woman like to me. You muft not now denie it is your hand. Fis. And all choic layings, will I ouer fweare, Write from it it you can, in hand, or ordate. And all those swearings keepe as true ic soule, 0

Or fay, tis not your feale, not your inuention : You can fay none of this. Well, grant it then, And tell me in the modeftie of honor, Why you have given me fuch cleare lights of favour, Bad me come finiling, and croffe-gatter'd to you, To put on yellow flockings, and to frowne Vpon fur Toby, and the lighter people : And acting this in an obedient hope, Why have you fuffer'd me to be imprifon'd, Kept in a darke houle, vifited by the Prieft, And made the moft notorious gecke and gull, That ere invention plaid on? Tell me why?

Ol. Alas Maluolio, this is not my writing, Though I confesse much like the Charracter : But out of queftion, tis Mariai hand. And now I do bethinke me, it was shee First told me thou wast mad; then cam'st in smiling, And in such formes, which here were presuppos'd Vpon thee in the Letter : prethee be content, This practice hath most shrewdly past vpon thee : But when we know the grounds, and authors of it, Thou shalt be both the Plaintiffe and the ludge Of thine owne cause.

Fab. Good Madam heare me fpeake, And let no quarrell, nor no braule to come, Taint the condition of this prefent houre, Which I haue wondred at. In hope it fhall not, Moft freely I confesse my felfe, and Toby Set this deuice against Malueluo heere, Vpon fome stubborne and vncourtcous parts We had conceiu'd against him. Maria with The Letter, at fir Tobyes great importance, In recompence whereof, he hath married her: How with a sportfull malice it was follow'd, May rather plucke on laughter then reuenge, If that the iniuries be iusly weigh'd, That haue on both fides paft.

Ol. Alas poore Foole, how have they baffel'd thee? Ch. Why fome are borne great, fome atchieve greatneffe, and fome have greatneffe throwne vpon them. I was one fir, in this Enterlude, one fir Topas fir, but that's all one: By the Lotd Foole, I am not mad: but do you remember, Madam, why laugh you at fuch a barren rafcall, and you fmile not he's gag'd: and thus the whirlegigge of time, brings in his revenges.
